Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-45 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The present invention is directed to a method and system for managing a user's consent to privacy changes in an application. Each independent claim identifies the uniquely distinct features of "determining whether permission was previously granted for the application to use the selected information according to the policy; when permission was not previously granted for the application, seeking permission from the user for the application to use the selected information according to the policy; when permission was previously granted for the application, determining whether one or more changes have been made to the policy since the permission was previously granted and whether the user should be notified of said changes; and notifying the user if determined that a change has been made to the policy since the permission was previously granted for the application to and that the user is to be notified of said change". The closest prior art, Barzilai (US 20020104015), discloses a conventional system for fails to anticipate or render the above underlined limitations obvious.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
